Keep Britain Beautiful

Britain's architectural heritage is one of the nation's greatest assets. The Georgian period gave us some of our most beautiful buildings. Yet our Georgian heritage faces a daily battle to survive. Demolitions, ugly extensions, unsympathetic alterations and neglect all pose serious threats to the historic architecture and atmosphere of our villages, towns and cities. The Georgian Group is the charity dedicated to preserving Georgian buildings and gardens. Each year we are consulted on over 6,000 planning applications involving demolition or alterations. We are not opposed to change, but our intervention has helped protect many buildings from unsympathetic alterations. It is often through our influence that a better solution is found. But it's vital that we do more, and we need your help.
